"The 14th FMF will be hosted by the Minangkabau District of Sarawak and will be held from September 21 to 23, 2017," said the festival's event coordinator, Dato Azal Awang, in a press statement today. Dato Azal added that the "AMF" — as the festival is called in Bahasa Malaysia — is to be held at Batu Caves, in the state of Sarawak. "The FMF is organised by the local festival management company and will be a one-day cultural event and aimed at bringing together and celebrating the diversity of Malaysian Muslim communities. "In keeping with the theme of 'Empowering Islamic women and Communities', the festival will honour the work done by Muslim women in the arts and in social development. "In keeping with the Muslim holy month of Ramadhan, our festival organisers are celebrating by organising a number of exciting activities, including the organising of an open-air production of a Muslim play," he said. The Manjakani Muslim Community is organising the Best Muslim Film and Music Festival (FMF) and has set aside RM100,000 to cover the festival's expenses. The FMF is the latest in a string of local festivals to attract Muslim communities. Earlier this year, the Islamic festival of Kebaya Puteri Pertiwi and Ijt
