This feature aims to improve the game's feel of both real and virtual interactions, creating more realistic and reactive animations. Using data from matches from both Real Madrid and Atletico Madrid, FIFA 22 also accurately replicates the jumping height of the players as they perform their successful take-offs and landings. With FIFA 22, we have improved the responsiveness, feedback and anticipation of all player animations across the pitch. All real-life and virtual player animations are significantly improved with smoother reactions and movement with greater agility. We have also significantly improved the ball's physical properties, so that it feels more authentic, and has greater movement when it takes a bounce and deflects. There is also a smoother passing and shooting physics, allowing for more realistic drag-backs. We have also improved the responsiveness of touch tackles, dribbling animations and the kicking of long shots.

Furthermore, there are more realistic collisions for high-level players. We have also made the passing animations more sensitive to the distance between the two players in the way they interact. For example, the timing and distance of the pass is more relevant when the two players are closer to each other. In conclusion, the robustness of FIFA's physics and AI systems means that the less physically-equipped teams can compete with top players on any surface.

Highlights for gameplay

Three player types The playstyle of each team is now influenced by three categories: Fast, agile players with great movement who can head the ball and counter-attack The strong and physical main player, who excels in tackling and taking on the ball The speedy and skilful, technical and creative players who are great at passing, shooting and dribbling, and are always in an on-ball position

New Player Types Easier for beginners New tutorials feature which teaches players how to manage their passes effectively. They will receive tips on effective passing in different situations. Make better decisions Improvements to the new IQ

Touch. It's now easier to make better passing decisions and be more realistic in-game. New dynamic AI behaviours Dynamic AI actions. The artificial intelligence is now more reactive and unpredictable in the way it reacts to the game situation. Advance to higher levels The advancement system allows for players to progress through the various gameplay modes and challenges of the game. New Level Select System

FIFA is a football simulation game that allows you to play or coach your favourite team and compete in unique game modes. FIFA is the largest sport on earth and the most popular video game series of all time. EA SPORTS™ FIFA 22 will also feature the new 'Powered by Football' engine that delivers a more authentic and engaging experience, launching with a complete change of direction in its Career Mode, improved gameplay, new improvements to the Player AI in various modes and an evolution of the ball physics system. 'Inspiring Innovation' This game is driven by 'Inspiring Innovation', and the product teams have united to deliver the world's most authentic football experience. The outcome of your game has never been more important. Your decisions and performance can determine the outcome of a match or even a season. The Core Team Working closely with the Ultimate Team community, The Core Team is developing an incredibly deep, rewarding and dynamic experience set in a fully interactive FIFA world. But we still wanted to make one more thing. That's why the Producer Team has made a number of fundamental gameplay enhancements that make FIFA the world's most authentic football game. Let's talk more about the Developer Team: The Producer Team. Fast Player Movement The Producer Team is investing considerable time and effort in better player movement. 'Fast Player Movement' makes many important advancements in the way players move and interact. Goalkeeper AI The Producer Team is upgrading goalkeeper AI and has introduced new behaviours that better replicate the way a real goalkeeper would deal with a ball moving in certain situations. Passing 'Passing' allows you to pass to an on-run teammate without hindering your own pass. That makes the passing game more robust and more fun, because it's harder to intercept the pass. Passing is one of the fundamental pillars of the game, and this update to the passing system will make it much easier for a defender to play an on-run pass and avoid picking up a foul. Balancing Your ability to score from free kicks, headers and penalties is now more balanced for more unpredictable outcomes. Player Attributes The Producer Team is tweaking the attributes of your players to bring the game closer to real-world attributes. Stamina, speed, mental strength and quickness are among the attributes you
